I think this settlement is plain wrong. You cannot limit monopoly actions, if it wants to abuse it's power:
they will always find some way arround. The only way to deal with it is to break Microsoft apart, into many companies: three or four of each sector of activity.
By sector of activity I mean things like OS, Office
Applications, Databases, Web and Application middle tier (Web servers, Application servers, etc), Web browsers, etc.
        Best regards.
                Ilya.
